Health To Go: Innovating Access to Essential Health Supplies through Public Health Vending Machines

Alyssa Hamilton, Program Planner and Evaluation Analyst

Alyssa Hamilton is a Program Planner and Evaluation Analyst with the Sonoma County Department of Health Services, Public Health Division. She earned a Master of Public Health degree from Saint Louis University, specializing in Behavioral Science and Health Education.

With nearly a decade of experience, Alyssa has contributed to a wide range of population health initiatives, including HIV prevention, disease surveillance, tobacco policy implementation, improving access to care, and community capacity building. Her approach to public health is grounded in collaborative partnerships, strategic decision-making, and a commitment to health equity.

She currently leads the Health To Go initiative, leveraging creativity, cross-sector collaboration, and data-driven decision-making to expand community access to essential health and wellness supplies. Through this work, she aims to foster an innovative and sustainable, equity-driven solution that advances long-term community well-being for Sonoma County residents.
