Community as the Center: Elevating the Community Perspective as a Driver in CHA/CHIP

Janice Chin, MPH, PMP, CPC, TIPC, Division Manager

With over two decades of experience in the healthcare sector, Janice Chin specializes in leading systemic change to improve access to care. Ms. Chin has been involved in large scale initiatives such as Alameda County's whole person care program and transitions to CalAIM. Currently, Ms. Chin oversees the City of Berkeley Public Health Division and their critical transitions in public health delivery. She has been instrumental in implementing performance management practices across two Local Health Jurisdictions, Alameda County and City of Berkeley.

Janice's diverse portfolio includes the implementation of community wellness centers, electronic health records, cutting-edge telemedicine services, and video-conferenced medical interpretation, ensuring that public health systems remain modern, accessible, and community-centered. She is a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) and an ICF Trauma-Informed Professional Coach, bringing a unique blend of technical rigor and empathetic leadership to her work. Janice earned her Master's in Public Health from San Jose State University.

Tanya Bustamante, DrPH, MPH, Deputy Director

Tanya Bustamante is the Deputy Director for the City of Berkeley's Health, Housing, & Community Services Department. She has worked with the City for approximately 16 years in various roles and has been in her current role for approximately one year and a half. Tanya is responsible for the administration and oversight of equity projects, quality improvement, CalAIM coordination, and communications for overall Department operations. Currently, she is spearheading the revision and implementation of the Department's Strategic Plan for Health Equity, as well as overseeing the Department's accreditation team. Tanya has also worked in the San Francisco Department of Public Health, and the San Mateo County Health Department.

Tanya has a Master of Public Health degree from UC Berkeley, and a Doctorate of Public Health degree from the University of Illinois-Chicago. She has a passion for health equity, community collaborations, and creating cultures of learning. In her free time, Tanya is an avid reader, a runner, and is a member of the UC Berkeley School of Public Health Alumni Association Board of Directors. She also enjoys spending time with her husband, 2 kids, and 2 dogs.
